Goal

Design a digital experience kiosk for kids library

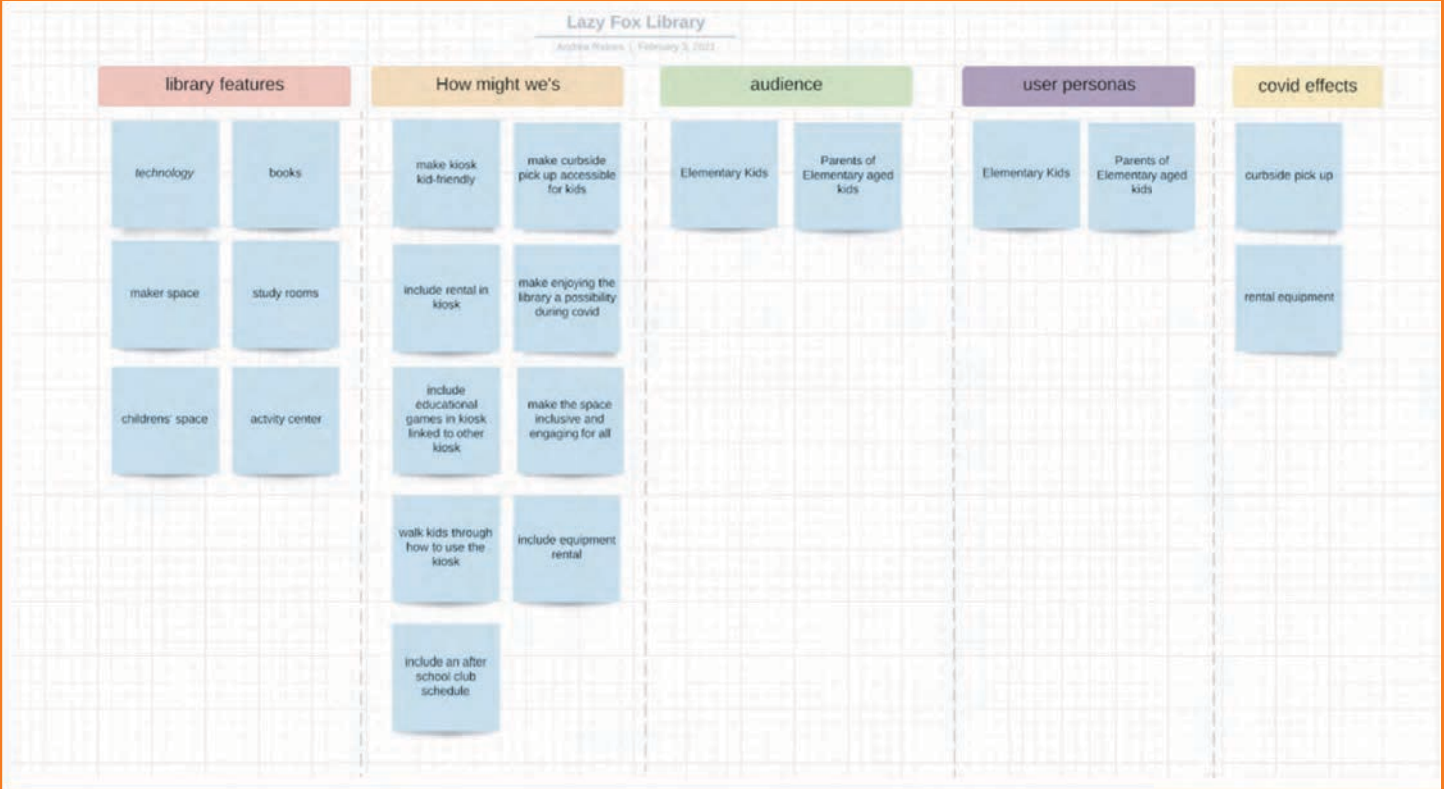

Lazy Fox Library Kiosk

It is a kid-friendly digital experience kiosk for kids in elementary schools. It gives them the ability to self-checkout and self-search the catalog for their favorite books.

Target Audience

Elementary Kids 8-13

User Research

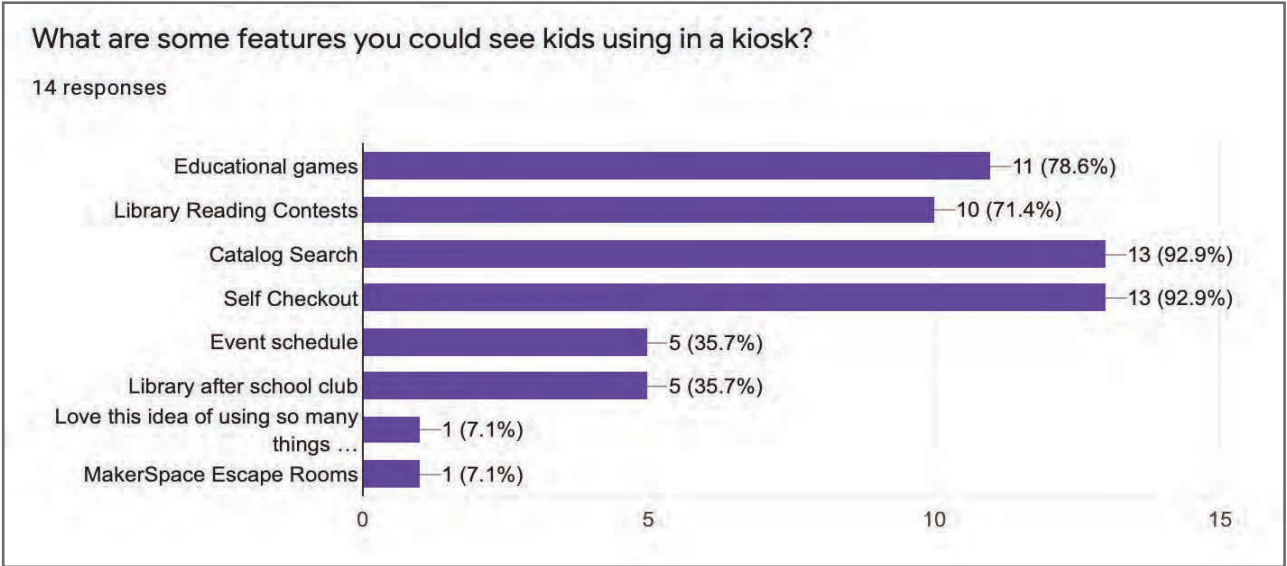

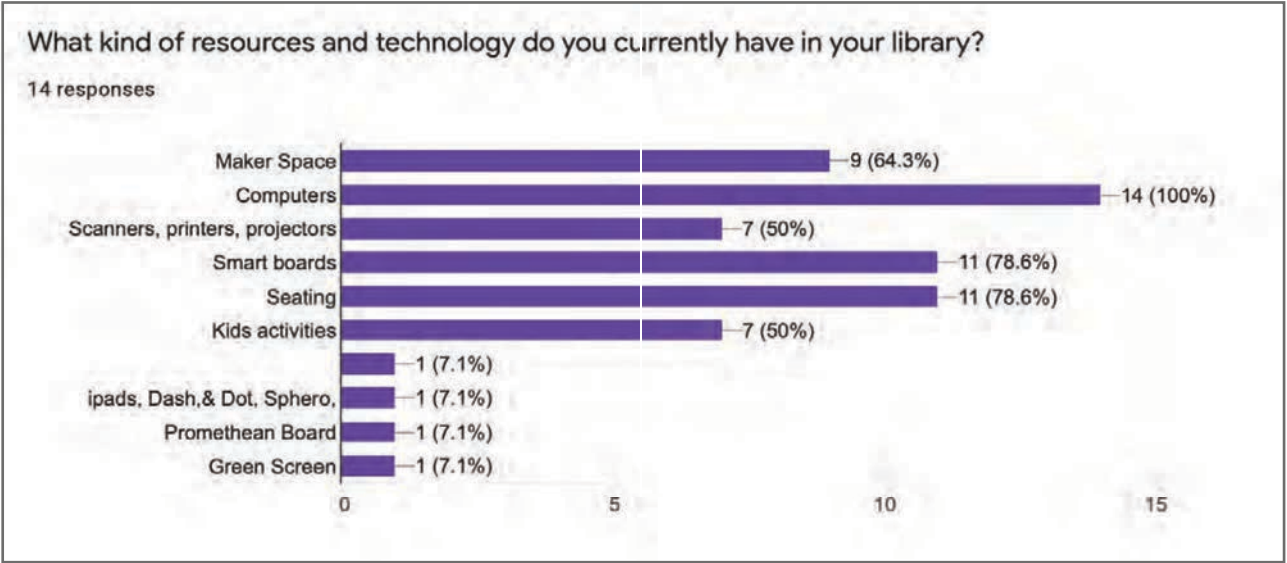

User Feedback

Goal to make is user-friendly for kids, simple and complete the purpose for self-checkout and search catalogue for elementary school libraries.

Character Set to locate books in the library as a more kid-friendly aspect.

Survey answers and designing for the user. Determining what was needed in the library as a kiosk.

User Personas

JADE

1st Grade

Jade is a first grader in a lower income elementary school. She relies on the schools library for a number of resources. The ability to checkout books to take home gives her an educational outlet from the reality going on around her. She enjoys reading fairytales and picture books!

ALEX

2nd Grade

Alex is a second grader. He has moved around to several elementary schools in his short life. He has seen different resources in libraries at the other schools and wants some of those resources at his school. Alex loves superhero books and uses the library for internet, after school program, and searching for his next favorite book on the kiosk.

BELLA

2nd Grade

Bella is a second grader in a lower income elementary school. She relies on the schools library as educational outlet from the reality going on around her. Moving schools over the years has made learning to read more difficult for her. Now that she has stability, the library gives her a comfortable place to practice and get better. She enjoys searching the kiosk for fantasy and mystery books.
